The bulletin board one day after teaching the first lesson.

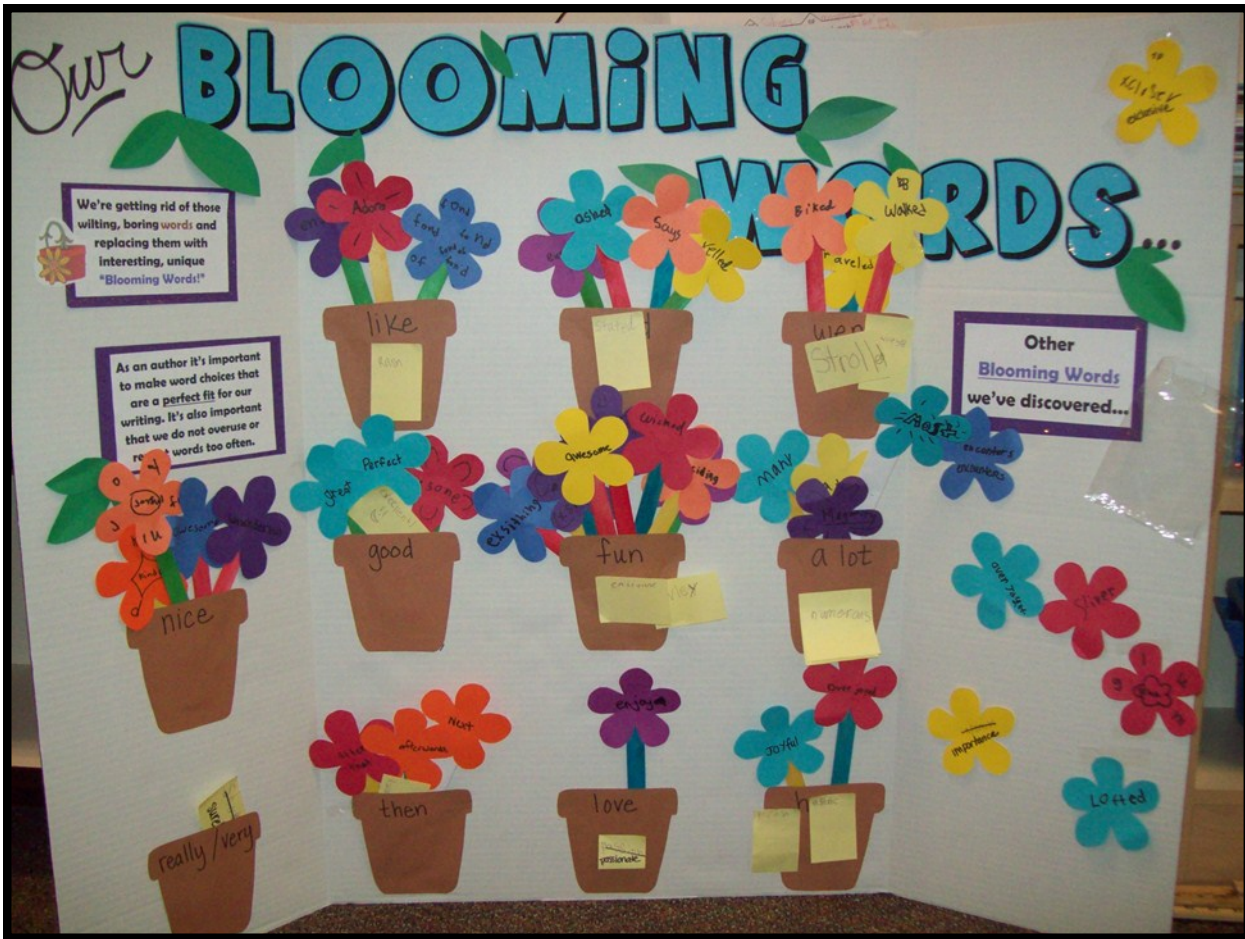

A close up the flower pots and text on the bulletin board.

A close up of the flower pots. Look at all the words they've discovered for "fun" just in one day!

Appendix A

The bulletin board as of March 16th, 2011! The yellow sticky notes were used because the students used up all the flowers before I could bring them more.

Here is a photo of the note I left the students while they were at lunch, after my most recent lesson.

Thought it would be a nice way to encourage students to keep it up!
